

Works from the Submerge series by Sarah Tew

Here is a small selection of 40 works that are available to purchase. This is a taster of what is available. If you would like to view the full range of works in this series, please contact me to request further details.

All sales from these works will go towards the creation of a book that celebrates and explores the processes and meanings of this series in relation to my wider practice. My process of submerging photographs began in 2011. Since then, my painting practice has expanded, but this body of work continues to grow alongside my research into place, landscape, and making.

Sarah Tew (b. 1987, Cumbria, UK) is a London-based interdisciplinary artist whose research-led practice explores the intersections between landscape, materiality, and process. Working across painting, drawing, and installation, Tew engages with the natural environment as both subject and collaborator. She primarily works with water-based media, including watercolour and dyes, which act as catalysts within her studio and in-situ practice. Their unpredictable fluidity reflects material transformations found in nature—erosion, sedimentation, and weathering—allowing her to explore the mutable boundaries between control and chance, permanence and change. Rooted in her formative connection to the Cumbrian landscape, Tew's work draws on embodied experience, environmental observation, and historical approaches to landscape representation. Her research considers how material processes can mirror ecological and emotional states, and how painting might operate as a form of dialogue with place.

Tew holds an MFA in Fine Art from the Slade School of Fine Art, University College London (2019), and a BA from Byam Shaw School of Art, Central Saint Martins (2009). Her work has been exhibited widely in the UK and internationally, including at the Venice Biennale (European Cultural Centre, 2024), Bankside Gallery, Hastings Contemporary, and ASC Gallery, London.

Recent awards include the Winsor & Newton Prize (Royal Watercolour Society, 2024) and the Max Werner Drawing Prize. Her work is held in the University of the Arts London Collection, Art Gazette, and numerous private collections across Europe, North America, and Australia.
